

GNOME TOAST

Need a new husband? Let's make one!

You can never have enough gnomes. Play a game and colour some more here.

GRAB:

- a grown-up to help
- 4 slices of toast
- 1 slice of white bread
- blueberries, strawberries, apple, melon (or other fruit)
- raisins & a banana
- chocolate spread + your fave spread

Hello, my name is Hecuba.

1 Spread one piece of toast with your fave spread. We used peanut butter (good gnome face colour).

2 Cut circles of white bread for the eyes and pop on blueberries for pupils.

3 Snip more toast to make the moustache, ears and eyebrows. Add choccy spread to these bits. Yum.

4 Snip out a toasty triangle hat. Sliced strawberries make it really red, but you could use jam too.

5 Now for the toast body! We used melon to make the green outfit and accessorised it with a raisin and banana belt.

6 Finish off with banana slice feet and apple slice arms. You've got your own Hecuba! Or is it Gerald?

Oh hello, new husband!

TOP TIP
Use clean kitchen scissors to snip the toast. ✂️

Just grab a dice, a mate and some textas.

PLAYER 1 – (HECUBA)

PLAYER 2 – (GERALD)

Take turns to roll the dice. If you throw a...

colour the hat

colour the belt & body

colour the face

colour the feet & spade

colour the moustache

colour the ears & eyebrows

The first one to finish colouring their gnome wins a Hammerbarn voucher* (*not really).
